

KEEPING NORTH CAROLINA'S FORESTS HEALTHY

One common but often overlooked way that invasive species make it into the state's parks, forests and private campgrounds is through the movement of firewood. You can help prevent the spread of dangerous invasive species like emerald ash borer, spongy moth, spotted lanternfly and the redbay ambrosia beetle by using local firewood. A good rule of thumb is to buy it where you burn it. Don't move firewood!

